Fulbright Is Scared by Laos Events

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says an assessment given him by high Nixon administration officials that Laos is even more important than Vietnam "scared me to death."

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, declined to identify the officials. It was learned, however, he referred to a high State Department official who twice in recent weeks made the argument in conversation with committee members.

Fulbright made the disclosure Tuesday shortly after joining Sen. George S. McGovern, D-Tuesday shortly after joining Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S. D., in a call for a secret Senate session on U.S. involvement in the Southeast Asian country.

The House held a secret session last December in considering a proposal later adopted to cut off aid to the country. Fulbright said he was "scared" by the disclosure that the U.S. was involved in Laos.

"It was before the new wave of concern over U.S. involvement in Laos—concern triggered by a North Vietnamese revealing the claim about the importance of Laos, Fulbright told the Senate that 'it suggests an ominous and dangerous future for the United States in that remote country.'"

"If Vietnam was important enough to justify the commitment of half a million American troops," Fulbright went on, "then in this view how many more could justifiably be committed to Laos, which is one of the few worst places than Vietnam to fight a war?"

Fulbright's statement came after Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird categorically denied there has been a U.S. build-up in Laos in either civilian or military men.

Laird told newsmen at the same time that U.S. policy toward military support of the Laotian government is under continuing review. "Whether there will be a change of policy, I would not make any prediction," he said.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, the Senate's senior Republican and high ranking member of Fulbright's committee, said he doesn't share the fear of many senators that Laos could become another Vietnam.

If such a thing happened, he said, "it would create such an upheaval in this country" that any good resulting from a firm U.S. stand would be quickly undermined.

Aiken said the shift in North Vietnamese attention to Laos is, in one way, a good sign because it means "North Vietnam is getting a little discouraged in the South and is devoting more attention to Laos for bargaining purposes."

McGovern said, however, that "in spite of the painful lessons of Vietnam, we are going down the same road in Laos, and we are doing it in secret." He said U.S. bombing strikes in Laos "are comparable to or greater than the raids over North Vietnam at their heaviest."

Fulbright and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., renewed their appeals for the administration to release the transcript of the hearings held on the extent of U.S. commitments in Laos.

Both said recent published reports on U.S. activities in Laos gave more information than the administration had secretly given Congress.

legislature is the third and last bill in the tax program — a proposal to repeal the use tax exemptions granted utilities and quasipublic corporations. It would raise an estimated $3 million.

The proposal was to be the subject of a public hearing this morning at a joint meeting of the Senate and House Revenue and Taxation Committees. Also under consideration by the committees was a bill to repeal the state's "fair trade" liquor law and increase the excise tax on whiskey from 3 to 5 per cent, producing about $900,000 in new money.

The Senate rejected the income tax bill on a vote of 4-29 and the service tax measure 2-32. The House voted 10-85 on the income tax proposal and 6-86 on the services bill.

The governor had summoned the special session at noon Monday primarily to consider the tax bills as a method of raising revenue he said was needed for needs he considered critical. He campaigned all last fall across the state to build support for the program, which he said in an address to a joint session of the legislature Monday would consolidate the state's gains.

The legislature approved about $25 million in new taxes in regular session last year. The governor had asked for about $90 million.

After the defeat of the two bills, Tuesday, the Senate began work on budgets that were predicated on an Arkansas Legislative Council plan to fund the most pressing needs without a tax increase.

The plan, drafted in case there were no tax increases, would redistribute balances that have accumulated in the accounts of state agencies and draw on the state General Improvement Fund.

It gives priority to raising state employee salaries, to providing a start on a construction program for state-supported colleges and universities and to improving the state's prisons, which U.S. District Judge J. Smith Henley has said have been operated unconstitutionally.

The Senate and House Revenue and Taxation Committees held a joint hearing Tuesday morning on the income and service tax bills. Both houses, apparently aiming for a Saturday

To Let Bid on I-30 Project Near Emmet

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Highway Commission will open bids March 25 on nine highway construction projects estimated to cost $9.1 million.

Included in a project calling for construction on about six miles of Interstate 30 in Hempstead and Nevada counties. The project begins northeast of the Emmet interchange and extends northeastward to north-east of Arkansas 332.

Other projects, by county: MONROE—Grading and minor drainage work, erosion control items and construction of three I-beam span underpass structures on about 14.2 miles of Arkansas 67 beginning at the U.S. interchange west of Beebe and proceeding northeasterly to the Searcy interchange.

INDEPENDENCE — Grading minor drainage work, one I-beam span bridge and miscellaneous items on 1.8 miles of Arkansas 69 beginning at the junction of Arkansas 69 north-west of Batesville and extending easterly and northeasterly to the junction of U.S. 167.

PULASKI — Construction of six pier protection cells, clearance gages and navigation lighting system for the Interstate 30 Arkansas River Bridge at Little Rock.

COLUMBIA — Grading, minor drainage work, two bridge length culverts and miscellaneous items on 6.8 miles of Arkansas 98 from near the south boundary of the Atlanta Oil & Gas Field, extending northerly to the intersection of U.S. 82.

CARROLL — Grading and minor drainage work on 6.6 miles of Arkansas 311 beginning in Green Forest and extending north and northeasterly to Fareville.

BENTON — Grading, minor drainage work and erosion control and miscellaneous items on 1.2 miles of Arkansas 68 beginning about one mile west of Osage River Bridge and continuing westerly.

MISSISSIPPI COUNTY — Grading, minor drainage work and one reinforced concrete slab span bridge on Arkansas 18 and 151 beginning near the junction of U.S. 61 in Blytheville and proceeding westerly to Center Street, then northwesterly on Arkansas 151 for about 1.8 miles.

adjournment, quickly called them to a vote.

Rep. John I. Purdie of Little Rock, sponsor of the House income tax measure, appealed for more time, but the representatives defeated a move to put off a vote until Wednesday. Purdie said in asking for more time that he realized he was asking only for a "stay of execution."

Purdie called the bill a reform measure. He said the legislature's opposition to it reflected the mood of the voters, but he said he felt the voters were "going to see the matter differently" when they discovered that the measure would either relieve or not affect the tax burden of more than 388,000 persons. He said about 125,000 persons would face an increased tax bill.

The proposal would have cut the taxes of low wage earners, extended cuts to thousands of families in the $5,000 to $7,000 income range and place more of the tax burden on taxpayers in higher income levels. It also would have raised the tax credit of individuals from $17.50 to $30 and the credit for dependents from $6 to $10.

The Southwest Arkansas Peace Officers Association held a dinner meet at the Hope Third district Livestock Show Coliseum last night and guest speakers included Attorney General Joe Purcell, Herbert Hoxie, State director of the FBI and Col. Ralph Scott, Director of the Arkansas State Police.

Some 400 law enforcement officers, city, state and county, attended. Entertainment was furnished by the Odom Quartet of Hope, the Village Idiots of Murfreesboro. The food was catered by Joda's of Nashville.

Assignments Made for Kiwanis Show

Kiwanis Variety Show plans were discussed at Tuesday's meeting of the local club. Members were given their advertisement solicitation assignments and each member was given a block of tickets for sale.

Guy Grigg, General Chairman of this year's show which will be presented at City Hall Auditorium on Thursday night, March 19th, announced that various committees were at work and making real progress toward presenting one of the best shows ever offered by the Kiwanis Club.

Dale Franks and his Music Committee are making selections of this year's music for the show, and Harry Hawthorne has secured a fine group of performers for the Specialty Acts, some of them repeated by request and some talent never before presented in a Kiwanis show.

President K.G. Hamilton reminded the club members that the Annual Kiwanis Variety Show is the primary source of funds for Kiwanis Youth Work and the Kiwanis Sponsored Golden Age Club.

Past Lt. Governor of Kiwanis, Mitchell Sparks, who has just recently moved back to Hope, was the guest of Guy Grigg, and Dr. Clare Trueblood of Indianapolis, Iowa was the guest of Dr. Jim McKenzie, Thomas Norvell and Lynn Norton, Key Clubbers were guests of the club.

Kennedy Is Mobbed Briefly in Ireland

DUBLIN (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was mobbed briefly Tuesday night in the land of his forefathers by about 60 young Irishmen who assailed him as an "agent of U.S. imperialism."

Several people were injured slightly when the demonstrators rushed Kennedy's car kicking it and throwing placards as the Massachusetts Democrat left Trinity College after a speech. One demonstrator was arrested.

As Kennedy spoke inside, the demonstrators outside displayed portraits of Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung alongside a "Down with Kennedy" banner. The young radicals plastered buildings around the campus with posters, some depicting Kennedy with fangs and a bloody dagger and others with the words "Down with Ed Kennedy, agent of U.S. imperialism."

Kennedy's speech was interrupted five times by applause and once by a student in the gallery waving the little red book of Mao's sayings as he yelled: "Down with U.S. imperialism—Kennedy get out!"

Ushers carried the youth out as he shouted: "Long live Chairman Mao!"

The senator was invited to speak at Trinity by the college's historical society, which is celebrating its 200th anniversary. He spoke on Edmund Burke, the Irish statesman who befriended the American cause before the Revolution and who founded a forerunner of the college society.

Citing Burke's statement that "partial freedom seems to me a most invidious form of slavery," Kennedy said: "In America, we live with a form of partial freedom. Over the past 20 years there have been assaults on racial oppression ... (but) the barriers only appear to fall, giving the illusion of progress."

The senator said in the "last few years of decline in the civil rights movement, the voice of the moderate man was not clear." He said some were "diverted by war," some were afraid to speak out, and "many leaders upon whom we depended, both black and white, were lost to violence."

current $3.60 hourly wage, including back pay of several hundred dollars per man for 1969, and the change in job jurisdiction rules that caused the sheet metal workers to vote it down. It would remain in effect only for the rest of 1970. "Then we will resume collective bargaining," said Labor Secretary Shultz.

The shop workers currently are working under a wage agreement imposed by Congress in 1967 to halt their crippling, two-day nationwide railroad strike. Attempts to reach a new agreement have dragged on since late 1968 and Nixon has exhausted all delays under the Railway Labor Act.

Chief railroad negotiator John P. Hiltz has insisted the industry could not grant all of the 68-cent wage boost, largest in the unions' history, without the provision permitting members of all four unions to do a limited amount of work in each other's traditional job jurisdictions to improve efficiency in rail maintenance and repair work.

Nixon rushed his message to Congress barely two hours after Wimpisinger announced calling a nationwide strike for one minute after midnight tonight.

"We regret, we are forced to announce that under authorization voted by shopmen we are calling a strike against all 128 of the nation's railroads beginning at 12:01 a.m., EST, Thursday," Wimpisinger said.

He said the unions had no other choice after U.S. District Judge Howard Callahan Monday enjoined them from striking just one railroad, the Union Pacific, on grounds it would illegally break their agreement to bargain with all the railroads nationally.

Although Joe Louis retired from the heavyweight boxing championship undefeated on Mar. 1, 1949, he lost to Ezzard Charles in a comeback attempt in 1950.

The broadcasting industry reserved immediate comment.

The bill has no effect on anti-smoking commercials. A Commerce Committee aide said the broadcasters have promised to continue these, although on a diminished basis.

Cigarette Ad Ban Clears Major Hurdle

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill banning cigarette commercials from radio and television after Jan. 1, 1971, has cleared a major hurdle in Congress, virtually assuring prompt passage and giving anti-smoking forces a hard-fought victory.

"By next year, cigarette advertising will move into the history books of television," declared Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., after the legislation was approved by a joint congressional conference committee Tuesday.

"It was clear to me, as it became clear to others who worked on the legislation, that the American public will no longer tolerate the promotion of a dangerous product directly into the living rooms and family rooms of millions of Americans," said Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

The bill as approved by the conferees represents an almost total victory for Senate anti-smoking forces over tobacco interests in the House and broadcast lobbyists who had sought to put off the effective date.

Besides prohibiting broadcast cigarette ads, the bill provides for a new hazardous warning label on all cigarette packages and prevents the states from any further regulation. The health warning will read: "Warning: the Surgeon General has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health."

In a concession to cigarette makers, however, the bill bars the Federal Trade Commission from requiring the warning to be included in all printed advertising until July 1971.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said the FTC would be free to move after then if it determined the cigarette industry was diverting to the print media much of the $240 million it now spends on broadcast commercials.

In Lexington, Ky., Jack Lewyn, a spokesman for the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, said it is doubtful the bill "will hurt cigarette sales very much since TV advertising is largely a competition among brands and by its nature not intended to create new smokers."

He noted the industry "offered voluntarily to withdraw its advertising some time ago. Thus the bill accomplishes what the cigarette industry said it would do voluntarily."

The bill has no effect on anti-smoking commercials. A Commerce Committee aide said the broadcasters have promised to continue these, although on a diminished basis.

In addition to receiving a specially designed silver charm from General Mills, sponsor of the annual homemaking education program, Ruby is now eligible for one of 102 college scholarships to be awarded, totaling $10,000.

Condition of Johnson 'Optimistic'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson today remains under care of Army doctors who say they are "fairly optimistic" but still wary of a possible heart attack.

Heartbeat irregularities appeared early Tuesday but a physician said the problem was "very well cleared up" with medication.

Johnson, 61, was flown to the Army's Brooke General Hospital after chest pains struck over the weekend at his LBJ Ranch.

Doctors reported he was still experiencing a discomfort in the chest late Tuesday after pain both in the chest and left arm earlier in the day.

Hardening of the coronary arteries is causing the pains, the doctors say.

Mrs. Johnson spent Monday and Tuesday nights in a large bedroom a few feet away from the former chief executive's room.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television/Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If predictions on "First Tuesday" are correct, there isn't much of a future.

"The doomsday scientists and ecologists" was what former Interior Secretary Stewart Udall called those who presented their views on the two-hour NBC program Monday night.

Biologist Paul Ehrlich and zoologists Kenneth Watt and Wayne Davis expressed convictions of impending global disasters that included the collapse of civilization within 10 years, a reduction of the American food supply to Asian levels, possible pestilence and the coming of a new ice age as a result of polluted environment, exploding population and waste of resources.

It was all very scary, but the segment lacked any suggestion of what the individual viewer could do to help remedy the situation.

Wedding Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. L.C. FLOYD

Mr. and Mrs. L.C. (Charlie) Floyd of Route 1, Prescott will be honored by their children with an open house from 2 to 4 p.m., March 15 in their home in observance of their 60th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd were married on March 20, 1910 by the Rev. Olin McMillan in Alpine.

They have six children, Earl Floyd, Texarkana, Leonard of Fort Smith, Mrs. C.W. Kirksey of Amity, Mrs. Clark Wright and Bobby Floyd both of Grass Valley, Calif. and Charles Floyd Jr. of Prescott.

All friends and relatives are invited.

HELEN HELP US!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

LIKE ME, LIKE MY HUSBAND, SHE SAYS

Dear Helen: Five years ago I was widowed and left with the care of six school-aged children. I met a man who loves me and my family, as we love him. Our life has been very happy since we were married.

But my father, sister and brothers reject this man because he comes from a different country. They don't judge him as a man, but by his race. So they recognize me but pretend he doesn't exist. The latest insult is the wedding invitation I just received.

Another portion of the program showed alleged damage to the Cambodian food supply from defoliating sprays of the U.S. military and displayed some still pictures of a Cambodian settlement attacked by U.S. forces with resulting death and injury to civilians. In interviews, U.S. spokesmen maintained the attack was a "protective action" against infiltration by North Vietnamese.

Earlier a long feature consisted of interviews with young Americans, most with families, who left the United States for permanent residence in Australia, Sweden and the Canary Islands. All seemed disillusioned with U.S. life and spoke disgustingly of crime in the streets, "the rat race" and "the pin-striped world."

Generally, it was a downbeat presentation and seemed off balance. The general despairing and critical tone was not particularly improved by a lengthy treatment on the lives of some Stone-Age Indians in Brazil or the sight of Marcel Marceau teaching pantomime and discussing the importance of study and discipline.

Patrick Macnee, who spent nine years playing a super agent in "The Avengers" on British and American television, was back on ABC in Tuesday's "Movie of the Week" playing a super con man.

The film was shot on location in Malta which helped, and was called "Mr. Jericho." Macnee, as Dudley Jericho, a smooth operator, and Marty Allen, as his comic sidekick, were trying to steal a diamond.

It was very reminiscent of by-gone shows and old movies about super thieves and cat burglars. "Mr. Jericho" lacked the jaunty of "The Avengers," but the 90-minute program had all the earmarks of a pilot for a new series. It isn't likely to make the network schedule.

ed. It is addressed to "Mrs. Barbara Brown (not my real name), and the inside envelope was inscribed: "Aunt Barbara and children." My husband is pointedly not included.

They know I won't attend the wedding under these circumstances, so was the invitation sent for a gift—or simply to hurt me further?—B.B.

Dear B: Whilever, let these thoughtless relatives know once and for all that your loyalty is with your husband. (I'm sure you already have.)—H.

Dear Helen: My husband and I divorced and, after a couple of years, remarried. I know this is a small matter, but which wedding anniversary do we celebrate? It will make a big difference when we reach our goal—the golden one.—HAPPY

Dear Happy: Technically, you'd celebrate your second-marriage anniversary date, but I see no reason why you can't observe both, along the way to your fiftieth—and those also. It isn't everyone lucky enough to have a golden wedding and anticipate it too.—H.

Dear Helen: Enjoying your column each day, I am especially impressed with the way you stand up for the "quiet majority" of young people—those who stay out of trouble and don't make the headlines.

Recently I was hospitalized with minor heart attack. The unpaid helpers who impressed me most were the "junior volunteers," teen-agers who spend their free time, even week ends, in hospitals, assisting, cheering, but being very careful not to intrude. Their eyes would light up when you "allowed" them to do something for you, just as if you granted them a wish.

I could watch from my floor window the patio of the psychiatric ward where people of the same age as our "Juniors" were recuperating, mostly from bad trips and drug addiction. My sympathy is with these young patients and I do wish them a speedy recovery and a good future.

Of course, I could not help drawing comparisons. It was like watching two different worlds within hand's reach. Yet why does the sordid world draw most of the attention? (Yes, I know—it's sensational, therefore newsworthy.)

How about extending to those youths of my hospital in Greenbrae, California, and to other "good kids" all over the nation, my warmest thanks and best wishes for their future?—GEORGE U.W.

Dear George: Don't And my best wishes and warmest thanks to YOU for giving our good kids the praise they deserve.—H.

French Cherry Pie

A delicious cherry pie first appeared in England in Queen Elizabeth's day. The French have always had it all over the English when it comes to pastries. In France, a smooth and creamy filling is often used to contrast with the tartness of the fruit. This rich cherry pie has such a filling and the new Jell-O French Vanilla Instant Pudding makes it as quick and easy as it is elegant.

FRENCH CHERRY PIE

- 1 cup cold milk
- 1 cup (1/2 pt.) sour cream
- 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 package (3 1/2 oz.) French vanilla instant pudding
- 1 baked 8-inch pie shell, cooled
- 1 can (21 oz.) cherry pie filling

Combine milk, sour cream and almond extract in bowl. Add pudding mix. Stirly beat with rotary beater or at low speed of electric mixer until well blended—about 1 minute. Quickly pour into pie shell. Chill 2 hours. Spoon cherry pie filling over each serving.

Land Is Not Wasted in N. Vietnam

By ALMA DeLUCE

HANOI (AP) — What does North Vietnam look like? Not shades of cultivated green. Not an inch of land is wasted. Green rice, green corn. Cabbages as big as pumpkins.

Until you leave Hanoi and set out for the 17th parallel, the 16-year-old "temporary" dividing line between North and South Vietnam.

A few miles south of Hanoi on the 21st parallel, bomb damage is a noticeable feature of the landscape, though the American bombing stopped two years ago and green foliage hides some of the rubble sites of buildings.

Southward from the 20th parallel, where bombing did not cease until Nov. 1, 1968, towns and villages along Highway 1 ceased to exist. We were told that road travel was hazardous until a year ago, when delayed action magnetic bombs were cleared away. District officials said their detonation system was so sensitive it could be set off by a child cutting grass with a hand cythe for the family water buffalo.

Craters are everywhere—in rice paddies and muddy estuaries, on sand dunes and hillsides. Some are 60 feet across, with the average perhaps 25. Where a village or small bridge stood, craters nearly overlap.

Children who have spent half their lives under conditions of air attack may be a little behind in their schooling, but they are knowledgeable about bombs, especially antipersonnel bombs I never knew existed. One is called a "leaf bomb." It is small, flat and ragged in shape, and is dropped in four colors: green for planted fields, red for clay, charcoal for mud and off-white for sand. The pressure of just a small foot exploded them.

In a straw-sided hut near Dong Hoi, which was the capital of Quang Binh Province until it was destroyed, I listened to a concert by a chorus of young girls.

Their first song was "Quang Binh, My Native Land." The melody was bittersweet, like an Irish ballad. The words expressed love of the land and a dream of new brick houses and plenty of rice.

To my western ear, Vietnamese music hardly sounds Oriental. Even native instruments I'd never seen before, especially a kind of long guitar with a single string, are moving in their sweetness, like a violin. I heard a chambermaid one day sing in a high, soft soprano what might have been a Puccini aria.

Nearly everything in North Vietnam has been unexpected, even the weather.

I thought this country just south of China would have a blazing sun and sultry nights. But the past 18 days have been chilly and gray. A thick ground fog rises at night, collects on the leaves of trees and falls to the ground like rain.

I was braced for the shrieking, hectic clamor of a metropolis. But Hanoi is a quiet city. Bicycles whisper by. Automobile horns are muted. Sometimes bicycle traffic is curb-to-curb at a principal intersection near the International Control Commission headquarters. A policeman in a sun helmet uses a bull horn to reprimand violators of traffic lights. Even amplified, his voice is gentle.

I knew Vietnamese women were beautiful and tiny. But I didn't know they could carry more than their own weight in ammunition cases. Some are antiaircraft gunners. Others have become experts in disarming unexploded American bombs.

The best automobile mechanic met during 11 breakdowns of our Russian jeep was a girl of 22 who was the second driver in a passing truck. She volunteered to get our engine started, took off her sandals, sat on the fender and proceeded to disassemble and clean the fuel pump, carburetor and generator. And she didn't get a speck of grease on her white tunic.

Frowns on Burning of U.S. Flags

By DALA MCKINSEY

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Cephas Brainard, collector of flags, says the proper way to dispose of a flag is to "burn it secretly and quietly, not in the middle of the street."

Brainard, who at 78 has been studying flags since World War I, had no harsh words for demonstrators who burn flags protesting government policies.

"Burning flags strikes me as the actions of people who don't really know what they can believe in," he said, but there was a hint of distaste in the tone of his voice.

Brainard began his collection of flags following World War I, because, seemingly there was so little known about the flags. Since that time, his study has expanded to flags of other nations but is limited only to flags that may have touched American soil at some time.

In his collection, he has replicas of flags carried by explorers to America.

Brainard's collection of flags now numbers 40, all handmade. He does not have any original flags in his collection because "they are pretty rare, and pretty expensive."

His flags are not always

A wide, ever-changing palette of colors is available for home decorating. The selections made should revolve around colors that suit the family's living and the furnishings already in the home. For example, bold, clear colors may make things look dingy, or they may add just the right touch. No color by itself is good or bad, pretty or ugly. It's the way the colors are combined that gives them value.

Don't sit too long in one position. When the body is held in a fixed position, muscles are constantly contracting without letup. Unless the muscles are given a break or stretch, they tend to shorten and go into spasm.

Even repeated reminders can't seem to keep some people from careless habits while smoking cigarettes and other tobacco products. A cigarette or cigar butt must be dead out—to play it safe.

made to scale. He says that so they will be easy to use, he specially designed a wooden container that holds flags and has an opening for the flag.

The flags, constructed of buckram or cloth with, are not always the color of the original flag, mainly because Brainard says the original color may not be known or may be hard to match.

Brainard uses the flag edition of the National Geographic as a pattern from which to make his flags. Last year, he used some of the special issue U.S. Post Office flag station as patterns.

He moved to Arkansas after retiring from a Worthington Pump and Machine Co. in Harrison, N.J.

A native of New York, Brainard graduated from New York University with a degree in philosophy and English. However, Brainard says that he should have never attended college, because during the Depression he found a degree did not put money in his pocket.

He spent two years in Arkansas before World War I selling real estate and operating a cattle ranch, but at that time he did not consider returning to Arkansas.

Brainard says he likes living in Hot Springs.

"I came from around New York City... there if you ride next to a guy on the subway every day for six months and say hello to him... he looks at you funny," he said. The same is not true in Arkansas, said Brainard, adding that he had a little "Daniel Boone spirit" in him.

When not making flags, Brainard delivers speeches on flags to groups in the Hot Springs area. However, that activity has been curtailed. Brainard just returned home from the hospital after suffering a heart attack and he says he "must take it easy" for awhile.

Bobcats in First Round Victory

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Never trailing after a 5-0 start, the Bobcats topped the Smackover Buckaroos 78-58 last night in the first round of the 4-AA Championships at the Southern State College in Magnolia.

There was never any doubt in the outcome as Hope advanced to the quarterfinal round and attendance with Camden Lincoln tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m. For the season the Bobcats are 13-13, having won four of five in two weeks, while Smackover wound up 6-48.

In other first-round games, Crossett edged the Mena Bearcats 54-52 in double overtime, and Fairview stamped Magnolia 77-44. Tonight's action at Southern State includes Crossett-Camden, Arkadelphia-Warren, and Fairview-Malvern pairings.

Hope wasted no time in establishing command. David Briggs hooked a 15-foot jumper, Lynn Norton added a free throw, and John Dudley hit from the baseline for a 5-0 edge after 77 seconds.

After Dennis Ray put the Buckaroos on the board at 5-1 with a 23 left in the period, Norton got another foul shot and Charles Frazier sank a five-footer to make it 8-4. Now the lead rested between six and eight points, until two Norton charity points and a Briggs layup placed a 16-6 tally on the lights.

When Frazier nailed a 20-footer for a 20-9 margin at 1:12, the Cats looked ready for a run-away then. But the rest of the quarter was scoreless, with three turnovers keeping Hope in the 20-9 position at the first stop.

Things kept getting better. Dudley, Briggs, and Frazier connected to produce a bigger difference, before Dudley went out-side for two swishers and a 30-15 situation 4:17 before halftime.

That dwindled before a 6-0 Smackover rally over 90 seconds, which Buck Eddie Jones closed with a tipin. Briggs hit twice, though, before a long net-corer at the buzzer left Hope charging 36-25 at intermission.

After a minute of the third segment, the Bobcats put the worries away with a good burst. Charles Frazier nailed a basket and an extra foul shot, and Ronnie Massaneli got into the totals along with Parker Powell.

It was a three-point sequence by Dudley that did the job, though. Then Tim White hit two free throws and it was 49-31 with 3:39 remaining in the third frame.

Now the bench began seeing duty for the Bobcats, coasting along with a decently-satisfying lead, and Smackover fought back to within 11, 53-42, before the last eight minutes.

After resting a while, Dudley and Frazier reentered. With 7:22 to play the Hope lead was only 55-46, but that last chance fizzled when Buck James Bolton was assessed a technical foul on top of his fifth personal foul.

At that point, Parker Powell canned three foul shots and it was 64-48 with the door open for more. It never got worse than the 22 points before the 78-58 final, with both reserves playing out a bit of the balance.

So now it is Camden Lincoln, the TEAM with everything. They are 22-3, and the Tigers are ranked about 7th in the state. Lincoln has beaten Hope twice, but not by irreversible margins.

The tipoff at Southern State tomorrow night is 8:30 p.m. Don't dare miss it.

Razorbacks Succumb to TCU Rally

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—TCU rallied from a four-point halftime deficit and defeated Arkansas 97-95 here Tuesday night in the final Southwest Conference game of the season for both teams.

Arkansas held a 47-43 lead at the half and continued to lead until midway through the second half.

Norm Wintermeyer's basket gave TCU a 67-65 lead with 11:31 left and free throw shooting by Rick Wittenbraker and Jeff Harp kept TCU ahead in the final minutes.

Arkansas' Robert McKenzie led all scorers with 26 points. Teammate Almer Lee added 20 points, all in the second half. Doug Boyd led TCU with 18 and Wintermeyer scored 17 as the Horned Frogs placed six players in double figures.

The victory gave TCU an 8-6 conference record and a tie for third place in the standings.

The Iowa Hawkeyes aren't thinking about the NCAA Basketball Tournament—yet.

Coches Ralph Miller won't let that happen until after Saturday's regular season windup with Northwestern. Iowa will try to become only the second team to go through a 14-game Big Ten slate unbeaten, duplicating Ohio State in 1961.

The Hawkeyes, ranked eighth in The Associated Press poll, ran their Big Ten record to 13-0 Tuesday night—18-4 over-all—with a 113-92 rout of Ohio State.

"I think this team is dedicated to 14-0," Miller said. "These boys are going to be on television for their last game and we want them to have as perfect a game as possible."

The Hawks were near-perfect Tuesday. They ruined Ohio State with a full-court press at the outset and raced to a 52-36 halftime lead. Five players scored in double figures, led by John Johnson with 37, Fred Brown with 24 and Glenn Vidnovic with 22. Dave Sorenson topped the Buckeyes with 34.

Another Iowa team, Drake, won the Missouri Valley Conference title and an NCAA berth without breaking a sweat when Bradley eliminated Cincinnati, the Bulldogs' last challenger, 87-83.

The Bearcats, tied for 19th nationally, fell behind 42-28 at the half and never got closer than four points. Gene Gathers led Bradley with 21 points. Rich Schultz added 18 and little Frank Sylvester 17. Gathers and Schultz each hit six points during a 20-6 burst late in the first half.

Cincy's Jim Ard scored 20 of his 29 in the second half but the Bearcats will have to settle for a likely trip to the National Invitation Tournament.

Besides Iowa, three other NCAA teams were in action. Dayton whipped Chicago Loyola 90-73 and Long Beach State downed Nevada-Las Vegas 94-90 but Rice's Southwest Conference champs lost to Texas A&M 91-86.

Ninth-ranked Marquette, bound for the NIT, got by Southern Illinois 75-68 and St. John's, another NIT entry, defeated Boston College 71-65.

Led by Ken May with 21 points and 20 rebounds and George Jackson with 19 points and 22 rebounds, Dayton murdered Loyola off the boards 63-39.

Long Beach State overcame an early 13-point deficit against Nevada-Las Vegas to wind up its regular season with a 23-3 record. George Trapp and Sam Robinson led the 49ers with 21 and 20 points respectively.

Texas A&M sewed up second place in the SWC by surviving a late Rice rally. The Horned Frogs led by 20 points with eight minutes left before the Owls whittled the margin to 88-84. A&M's Mike Heitmann and Rice's Gary Reist each scored 24 points.

Southern Illinois gave ninth-ranked Marquette all it could handle for 30 minutes before the Warriors opened a 13-point lead. Dean Mendinger hit eight of 10 shots and scored 22 points for the Warriors but sophomore Greg Starrick had 20 for the losers.

Bill Paultz, a 6-foot-10 center, paced St. John's past Boston College with 22 points but the Eagles' Jim O'Brien took game honors with 26, all but five in the second half.

It was a big night for Purdue's Rick Mount. He scored 37 points in the Bullermakers' 101-88 triumph over Michigan State and then was named to The AP's All-American team.

The Bearcats, tied for 19th nationally, fell behind 42-28 at the half and never got closer than four points. Gene Gathers led Bradley with 21 points. Rich Schultz added 18 and little Frank Sylvester 17. Gathers and Schultz each hit six points during a 20-6 burst late in the first half.

Cincy's Jim Ard scored 20 of his 29 in the second half but the Bearcats will have to settle for a likely trip to the National Invitation Tournament.

Besides Iowa, three other NCAA teams were in action. Dayton whipped Chicago Loyola 90-73 and Long Beach State downed Nevada-Las Vegas 94-90 but Rice's Southwest Conference champs lost to Texas A&M 91-86.

Ninth-ranked Marquette, bound for the NIT, got by Southern Illinois 75-68 and St. John's, another NIT entry, defeated Boston College 71-65.

Led by Ken May with 21 points and 20 rebounds and George Jackson with 19 points and 22 rebounds, Dayton murdered Loyola off the boards 63-39.

Long Beach State overcame an early 13-point deficit against Nevada-Las Vegas to wind up its regular season with a 23-3 record. George Trapp and Sam Robinson led the 49ers with 21 and 20 points respectively.

Texas A&M sewed up second place in the SWC by surviving a late Rice rally. The Horned Frogs led by 20 points with eight minutes left before the Owls whittled the margin to 88-84. A&M's Mike Heitmann and Rice's Gary Reist each scored 24 points.

Southern Illinois gave ninth-ranked Marquette all it could handle for 30 minutes before the Warriors opened a 13-point lead. Dean Mendinger hit eight of 10 shots and scored 22 points for the Warriors but sophomore Greg Starrick had 20 for the losers.

Bill Paultz, a 6-foot-10 center, paced St. John's past Boston College with 22 points but the Eagles' Jim O'Brien took game honors with 26, all but five in the second half.

It was a big night for Purdue's Rick Mount. He scored 37 points in the Bullermakers' 101-88 triumph over Michigan State and then was named to The AP's All-American team.

Bobcats in First Round Victory

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Never trailing after a 5-0 start, the Bobcats topped the Smackover Buckaroos 78-58 last night in the first round of the 4-AA Championships at the Southern State College in Magnolia.

There was never any doubt in the outcome as Hope advanced to the quarterfinal round and attendance with Camden Lincoln tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m. For the season the Bobcats are 13-13, having won four of five in two weeks, while Smackover wound up 6-48.

In other first-round games, Crossett edged the Mena Bearcats 54-52 in double overtime, and Fairview stamped Magnolia 77-44. Tonight's action at Southern State includes Crossett-Camden, Arkadelphia-Warren, and Fairview-Malvern pairings.

Hope wasted no time in establishing command. David Briggs hooked a 15-foot jumper, Lynn Norton added a free throw, and John Dudley hit from the baseline for a 5-0 edge after 77 seconds.

After Dennis Ray put the Buckaroos on the board at 5-1 with a 23 left in the period, Norton got another foul shot and Charles Frazier sank a five-footer to make it 8-4. Now the lead rested between six and eight points, until two Norton charity points and a Briggs layup placed a 16-6 tally on the lights.

When Frazier nailed a 20-footer for a 20-9 margin at 1:12, the Cats looked ready for a run-away then. But the rest of the quarter was scoreless, with three turnovers keeping Hope in the 20-9 position at the first stop.

Things kept getting better. Dudley, Briggs, and Frazier connected to produce a bigger difference, before Dudley went out-side for two swishers and a 30-15 situation 4:17 before halftime.

That dwindled before a 6-0 Smackover rally over 90 seconds, which Buck Eddie Jones closed with a tipin. Briggs hit twice, though, before a long net-corer at the buzzer left Hope charging 36-25 at intermission.

After a minute of the third segment, the Bobcats put the worries away with a good burst. Charles Frazier nailed a basket and an extra foul shot, and Ronnie Massaneli got into the totals along with Parker Powell.

It was a three-point sequence by Dudley that did the job, though. Then Tim White hit two free throws and it was 49-31 with 3:39 remaining in the third frame.

Now the bench began seeing duty for the Bobcats, coasting along with a decently-satisfying lead, and Smackover fought back to within 11, 53-42, before the last eight minutes.

After resting a while, Dudley and Frazier reentered. With 7:22 to play the Hope lead was only 55-46, but that last chance fizzled when Buck James Bolton was assessed a technical foul on top of his fifth personal foul.

At that point, Parker Powell canned three foul shots and it was 64-48 with the door open for more. It never got worse than the 22 points before the 78-58 final, with both reserves playing out a bit of the balance.

So now it is Camden Lincoln, the TEAM with everything. They are 22-3, and the Tigers are ranked about 7th in the state. Lincoln has beaten Hope twice, but not by irreversible margins.

The tipoff at Southern State tomorrow night is 8:30 p.m. Don't dare miss it.

All America List Headed by Maravich

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Pistol Pete Maravich, Bob Lanier, Dan Issel, Rick Mount and Calvin Murphy were selected today to the 1970 college basketball All-American team by the Associated Press.

They are so well known in the sport it is hardly necessary to add that Pistol Pete is from Louisiana State, Lanier from St. Bonaventure, Issel from Kentucky, Mount from Purdue and Murphy from Niagara. All are seniors.

In making the team for the third straight year the 6-foot-5 Maravich, the major college all-time high scorer with more than 3,500 career points, topped the voting from 384 sports writers and band broadcasters.

The 6-4 Mount and the 5-10 Murphy are repeaters from the 1969 All-American Team. Lanier, 6-11, and Issel, 6-8, moved up from the second team last season.

Charlie Scott of North Carolina, Austin Carr of Notre Dame, Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville, Rudy Tomjanovich of Michigan and John Roche of South Carolina were named as the second team this season.

Mike Maloy of Davidson, John Johnson of Iowa, and Jim McMillan of Columbia were selected for the third team along with two UCLA players, Sidney Wicks and John Vallely.

Curtis Rowe of UCLA, Rich Yunkus of Georgia Tech, Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky, Mike Pratt of Kentucky, Howard Porter of Villanova, Dave Robisch of Kansas and Sam Lacey of New Mexico State headed the list of honorable mentions.

Maravich, who will play in the National Invitation Tournament in New York with the Bayou Tigers, was named on all but two of the 384 ballots. He got 369 first team votes and 13 seconds.

On the basis of five points for a first and two for a second Pistol Pete thus polled 1,871 points. His fancy shooting, dribbling and passing has drawn capacity crowds wherever he has played.

His game average is 47 points and his achievements this season include a career single game high of 69 points against Alabama, the highest ever for a game between major teams.

Lanier and Issel, who led St. Bonaventure and Kentucky into the NCAA championship post-season tourney, were next in the voting. Lanier polled 1,724 points with 334 firsts. Issel got 1,413, including 235 firsts.

Mount received 199 firsts and a total of 1,267 while Murphy had a total of 1,252 points including 186 firsts. Murphy is another crowd-pleaser who led Niagara into the NCAA tourney.

Scott topped the second quintet with 987 points including 151 firsts. Carr polled a total of 855 with 119 firsts.

There was a sharp decline after that with the 7-2 Gilmore next at 425 with 73 firsts. Completing the voting for the second team, Tomjanovich had 338 points with 34 firsts while Roche had 330 with 36 firsts. Tomjanovich beat out Roche with 84 seconds to 75 for the South Carolina star.

Each player on the All-American squad, comprising the top 15, will receive a certificate from the Associated Press.

Take Bids to All-Star Game

MEMPHIS (AP)—University of Kentucky basketball stars Dan Issel and Mike Pratt accepted invitations Tuesday to play in the East-West senior All-American basketball classic here March 25.

They will be on the East squad, to be coached by UK's Adolph Rupp. LSU's Press Maravich will coach the West team.

Nicklaus Heads Elite Field of 100

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, back after a four-week absence, headed an elite field of 100 scheduled to tee off Thursday in the first round of the $150,000 Florida Citrus Invitational Golf Tournament.

The tournament is being played as an invitational rather than an open event for the first time and has been the subject of some criticism by a number of the younger players on the tour.

"I don't think invitationals are the answer to our problems on the tour," said Mike Hill, winner of last week's Doral Open.

"Now this is just my opinion and probably nobody cares what I think—I've just been on the tour for two years—but with the number of players we've got on tour, I don't think it's right for all the young players, the guys who try to qualify each week, to be playing in a $35,000 event."

Under PGA regulations the sponsor of a new invitational event must provide funds to sponsor a satellite event, with a minimum purse of $35,000 for players not invited to the major tournament.

The $35,000 Florida Citrus Open began Tuesday at Lakeland with 144 of the nonexempt players participating.

The Masters, the American Golf Classic and the Colonial National are the only other invitational events on the tour, but the younger players are fearful that the number will increase.

Most of them don't want to be quoted.

"If you use our names, we'd just be blackballing ourselves," one player said. "There's about 300 players out here on a regular basis. When you've got an invitational, you cut the spots open from 144 to 100—and that hurts," he said.

Tournament director Paul Warren had another tact.

"With the satellite tournament you've increased the number of spots from 144 to 244," he said. "There are more players with a chance to make money, more players with a chance to gain exemption points."

The field for the Citrus Invitational is made up, primarily, of players who are exempt from the usual Monday qualifying rounds and is probably the strongest of the year.

The only major names missing are South African Gary Player, who is scheduled to start his American tour next week, Billy Casper and Gene Littler. Casper and Littler are taking some time off.

Ski Champion Sees Sport Making Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Kidd, America's first and only world champion skier, sees sport making gains as the explosive spectator sport of the Seventies.

"It can't miss—it has everything," the 26-year-old Olympic veteran from Stowe, Vt., said today during a brief stop in his whirlwind swing around Manhattan. "It is fast, it is man-to-man. There is always the element of danger."

"It is in an experimental stage this year. Next year, top skiers will be competing for the chance to make $100,000 and $150,000. Thousands will watch the races live. Television networks will be battling for the chance to show them to millions of others."

Kidd is the featured performer in one of the first of these spectaculars to be beamed to American audiences—the World Professional Championships recently at Verbier, Switzerland (ABC's Wide World of Sports Saturday).

The 26-year-old New Englander, member of two U.S. Olympic teams and silver medalist in the special slalom at Innsbruck, Austria, in 1964, is an unimposing athlete although he has been rated America's top male skier for the last six years.

He is 5-foot-8, weighs only 155 pounds and gives the impression of frailty.

Yet he is a dare-devil on the slopes, feared and respected by his neck-risking rivals.

"Once I thought that after this season I would quit skiing, go to business school for two years and settle down to an office career," he said. "After I won the gold medal in the combined in the World Amateur Championships last month at Val Gardena, Italy, I recognized the future of pro skiing. I decided to give it a fling."

Billy said the pro circuit would be organized and directed by the skiers themselves with Bob Beattie, former U.S. Olympic coach, serving as the chief conductor.

"It will be a challenge event — any man who skis will have a chance to compete," Kidd explained. "There will be eliminations and then for the championship the survivors will race down the slopes head to head. It can be very exciting."

The skier, Kidd added, may be the blue ribbon athlete of the future.

"Skiing is 'in' with the youth — it's exploding as a recreational sport," he said. "The competitive skier must be a superb athlete—well trained, quick with lightning reflexes."

"Remember you come down that track sometimes at 90 miles an hour. The least slip and it costs you a broken leg. Part of the fascination is the danger of it."

A-Tech earned a trip to the national NAA basketball tournament in Kansas City, Mo. Tuesday night with a 76-74 victory over Arkansas A&M in the finals of the District 17 NAA Tournament.

Terry Hankton, a sophomore from Crosson, supplied the margin of victory when he swished a 25-foot jump shot at the buzzer.

Tech advanced to the finals with a 74-67 victory over Ouachita and A&M had eliminated Henderson 169-91. Henderson mauled Ouachita 76-41 Tuesday night in a consolation game.

A&M led Tech by as much as seven points in the first half Tuesday night, but the Wolves boys led 11-38 at the half.

Washington Edges Pipers With Bradds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Miami's George Lehmann needed a little help from Commissioner Jack Dolph in beating New Orleans, but Gary Bradds and Washington managed very well against Pittsburgh without an act of Congress.

With Bradds hitting 12 straight baskets that helped wipe out an 18-point Pittsburgh lead, Washington edged the Pipers 117-115 Tuesday night in the American Basketball Association before a group of basketball-playing congressmen.

The game was the nightcap of a doubleheader with Republican congressmen nudging Democratic congressmen 13-12 in the opener.

Lehmann did okay, too, hitting four consecutive three-point field goals in a third period Miami rally that sent the Floridianspast the Bucs 125-117 in Miami. But they needed a ruling by ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph to help them along.

Dolph, a spectator, refused to allow a protest by New Orleans coach Babe McCarthy.

In the only other game, Dallas beat Denver 142-130.

In the National Basketball Association, the New York Knicks beat San Francisco 115-100, Milwaukee dropped Philadelphia 127-116, Atlanta whipped Los Angeles 101-93, Chicago trimmed Phoenix 123-111, and Seattle beat San Diego 118-114.

Bradds came off the bench to score a season high 36 points, including a tip in that put the Caps in front 80-79. Rick Barry, who had 15 points, then scored three points moments later to put the Caps ahead to stay.

After Lehmann's outburst, the Floridians went on a 14-1 spree at the end of the third period for the clincher. Don Freeman topped Miami with 29 points.

The protest resulted on a rebounding foul called against New Orleans, but the officials gave the Bucs possession without allowing Miami a free throw. When Floridian official called attention to the oversight, play was halted while Don Sidle scored two free throws.

New Orleans then got possession again, but McCarthy protested that play should not have been interrupted.

9-Year-Olds in Oaklawn Feature

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — An M. T. Farm entry of Cimarron Jet and Hunt Me Now heads a field of nine older horses in today's $5,000 feature race at Oaklawn Park.

Cimarron Jet has been assigned 111 pounds and Hunt Me Now 107 pounds.

Luke's Sander is topweighted at 119 pounds for the six-furlong event.

Rounding out the field are Ozark Chris 108, Tom Skelly 113, Master Paul 111, Ivy Lane 111, Royal Gemini 113 and I'm In Favor 108.

In Tuesday's $6,500 feature race, Tidal Water scored a 1 1/2 length victory over Anne Ballet.

Tidal Water, owned by D. A. Scott II and ridden by James McKnight, covered the six furlongs in 1:14 4/5 on a muddy track.

Tidal Water returned $12.60, $4.60 and $3.40. Anne Ballet paid $4.00 and $3.40 Cornada.

The show horse, paid $3.40. Judge Carey, winner of the first race, and King Hunza, winner of the second, combined for a $176 40 daily double.

Tuesday's crowd of 6,781 weighed $32,319.

Jerry West Makes Point No. 2,000

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Joe Caldwell gave Jerry West enough breathing room to score his 2,000th point, but little more, and now the Atlanta Hawks have room to breathe a little easier.

Caldwell, a 6-foot-5 jumping jack forward, clung to West through most of the game, stopping him with 18 points—far below his 31.1 average—and the Hawks topped West and the Los Angeles Lakers 101-93 Tuesday night at Atlanta.

The victory increased Atlanta's Division lead over the Lakers from a half game to 1 1/2 games with the Hawks having only eight games left and the Lakers nine.

In other games, the New York Knicks stopped San Francisco 115-100, Milwaukee slammed Philadelphia 127-116, Chicago beat Phoenix 123-111, and Seattle upended San Diego 126-114.

In the American Basketball Association, Miami downed New Orleans 125-117, Washington edged Pittsburgh 117-115 and Dallas beat Denver 142-130.

West, who scored most of his points in the second period when Caldwell wasn't guarding him, led the Lakers to a 48-47 halftime lead and became the league's first player to hit 2,000 points this season with 4:38 remaining before intermission.

Dave DeBusschere had six points and Willis Reed four pulling the Knicks from a 79-78 deficit to a 90-80 lead and New York had its third consecutive victory and 55th of the season, a club record. DeBusschere finished with 22 points and Reed 10 with 21 rebounds. Jeff Mullins scored 28 for the Warriors.

Low Alcindor poured in 31 points, Flynn Robinson 30 and Len Chappell 23 in Milwaukee's win over Philadelphia. Chappell came off the bench in the last half to spark the Bucks. Hal Greer paced the 76ers with 28 points.

Chicago got 33 points from Clem Haskins and 32 from Bob Love in downing Phoenix. The Suns rallied to reduce the Bulls' lead to three points with six minutes remaining, but Love and Jerry Sloan hit key goals to put the game out of reach.

Dick Van Arsdale's 25 points led Phoenix.

Seattle scored 10 straight points in the final three minutes in beating San Diego for its sixth consecutive victory, a team record. The triumph, coupled with Chicago's success over third-place Phoenix, left the Sonics one-half game behind the fourth-place Bulls and one game behind the Suns in the West.

Elvin Hayes of the Rockets took scoring honors with 31 points while Dick Snyder was high for Seattle with 26.

O'Brien Will Return as Demo Chairman
By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien, the premier professional of the Democratic party, is headed for a return performance as its chairman—the choice of a consensus, not a sponsor.

His credentials as a political pro made him the virtually indispensable man to a party in desperate need of management—and money.

But without a party mandate, he was not available. And he clearly saw none in Hubert H. Humphrey's original invitation to resume the chairmanship he left nearly 14 months ago.

Not until a cross-section of party leaders voted unanimously to ask him back did O'Brien reverse his earlier refusal and agree to return to party headquarters.

O'Brien, 52, accepted no salary during his earlier term as chairman and, presumably, will serve on the same basis now, drawing his income from the New York public relations firm.

However, he agreed to serve as a full-time chairman.

The Democrats finally settled on O'Brien because they had no one else available with the experience and the contacts he has fashioned during more than 30 years in politics.

"The best elections man in the business," the late President John F. Kennedy called O'Brien, who served as director of his Senate and White House campaigns.

He had the same role in President Lyndon B. Johnson's 1964 campaign.

O'Brien then became postmaster general—but only between campaigns. Ten days after Johnson announced he would not run again, O'Brien resigned to join the presidential campaign of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

A month after Kennedy was assassinated, he took over management of the Humphrey campaign. "He knows his business," said Humphrey, choosing O'Brien to be campaign manager and national chairman as well.

O'Brien served as chairman until Jan. 14, 1969, resigned to become president of a Wall Street brokerage house, left that to open a public relations firm.

When Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, who succeeded him as chairman, resigned the job, Humphrey asked O'Brien to return as chairman. But there were rumbles of dissent within the party, for lack of consultation about the selection.

And O'Brien said no, for lack of a consensus.

When the party executive committee's Sunday meeting amounted to a stalemate, O'Brien's name soon was back in the conversation, first as a possibility, then as a hope, then as a draft.

"We found that for the first time we arrived at unanimity," said Jacob M. Arvey, the veteran Chicago Democratic leader, who presided. He telephoned O'Brien, told him of the draft, insisted it represented a consensus, appealed to him to take the job.

And O'Brien, presented the kind of mandate he apparently wanted all along, agreed.

An O'Brien associate said the draft brought a deluge of telephone calls from party figures to the former chairman, urging him to accept.

Among the most persuasive: Calls from some past Democratic donors, to whom the party now is looking for help in overcoming an $8.3 million debt.

O'Brien is immune from the suspicion of personal political ambition which made trouble for Harris as chairman, and was in large measure the reason for his resignation.

"If I have any talent, it is in organizing a campaign," O'Brien once said.

There are parallels between the current Democratic situation and what the Republican party faced six years ago, after the landslide presidential defeat of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Republican moderates then demanded a change at national headquarters, and quickly settled on Ray C. Bliss, Ohio GOP chairman, a widely acclaimed technician identified with no party faction.

"TEXAS CRASH CUSHION" provides barrels of safety at a "gore point" on the heavily traveled, high-speed Houston "Loop." Formerly a concrete wedge and the scene of killing and crippling accidents, the point's danger has been nearly eliminated by a cluster of 55-gallon steel drums. With the empty barrels in place, there hasn't been a fatality or serious injury in several accidents at the "softened" point. Holes punched in the tops and bottoms of the drums lower their crush resistance so they will collapse under impact.

In today's hand South wasted no time ruffing a heart at trick two. Then he cashed a couple of trumps and stopped for the first time when West discarded on the second trump lead.

He had won the second trump in dummy and his next play was a low club toward his queen. East was careful to play the eight and West even more careful to hold back his ace that time. West rose on the next club lead and gave his partner a club ruff. This left the defense with three tricks in and South still had to lose a diamond.

"Why couldn't you have just discarded a diamond at trick two?" roared North. "You had to lose it some time or other."

"Never thought of it," replied South. "The hand looked so easy. However, now that you mention it, wouldn't I have looked silly if I had done that? The trumps had broken 3-2 while clubs broke 4-1. Now a club shift and a club ruff would beat me on that line of play while my play would have succeeded."

We have been asked to settle the argument and will do the best we can.

From the result standpoint the discard at trick two was the winning play and it was also the correct play from a percentage standpoint. In other words, it would succeed more often than the play actually made.

On the other hand, the play that South tried was only slightly inferior and our real criticism of South is that he didn't stop to do a little thinking before playing to trick two. A little early thought can save a lot of headaches later on.

Surgical Removal Best for Ovarian Cyst
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q-I had an ovary and tube removed in 1960. Should I take hormones?

A-If you have not reached the menopause and still have one good ovary, you do not need female hormones. If both ovaries have been removed or if you are in the change of life, supplementary doses of hormones should help you.

Q-What causes an ovarian cyst? If there is a cyst on one ovary will the other get one too? What is the best treatment?

A-Ovarian cysts are of several kinds. The commonest type is the serous cyst which may become as large as a football. The cause is unknown. They often involve both sides. The recommended treatment is surgical removal.

Q-What causes inflammation of the ovaries?

A-This may be caused by any type of pelvic inflammatory disease, usually by extension from an inflammation of the tubes.

Q-A relative has Marfan's syndrome. What is it and what is the best treatment?

A-In this hereditary disorder, the bones of the arms and legs are excessively long. The victims, especially children, are usually underweight. They may also be pigeon-breasted. President Lincoln is thought to have had this disease. Most victims require no treatment but if there is much disability, surgical correction of some of the defects may be necessary.

Q-What are the cause and symptoms of polymyositis? I can't find it in any medical book in the local library.

A-The disease is polymyositis. The cause is unknown. It starts with easy fatigability and general peppiness. Tests of strength show a definite weakness in the involved muscles. There may also be a skin rash. Aspirin, prednisone and gentle massage are helpful. They must be applied faithfully to prevent complications. The disease can often be controlled but not cured.

Q-I am going with a boy. Some day we hope to get married. When he was a baby, he had the mumps and they went down on him. Will that make it impossible for him to have children?

A-No.

Graham Agrees
With Agnew's
News Criticism

Some commentators expressed surprise when opinion polls showed the majority of Americans supported Vice-President Agnew's criticism of all television and some newspapers for bias in repeatedly publicizing violent demonstrations by a handful of black and white militants.

I don't know why the "far out" commentators were surprised -- unless it was because they, like the demonstrators, had grown so used to the game that they confused liberty with license.

Certainly the average American is hostile to groups who burn down cities just to prove a point, whatever that point may be, and hostile also toward TV commentators and editors who condone and even encourage public disorder. Middle-of-the-road support from famed Evangelist Billy Graham when he told an audience at Knoxville, Tenn., where he is preparing for one of his crusades:

"There is a militant black group with less than 1,500 members in the country today, yet they get on national television almost daily (in apparent reference to the Black Panthers).

"But if we fill our stadium every night during the May crusade with young people the crusade would not make national television as news."

Of course violence is news while virtue is non-newsworthy, a fact of life which can't be helped by the people running television stations or newspapers.

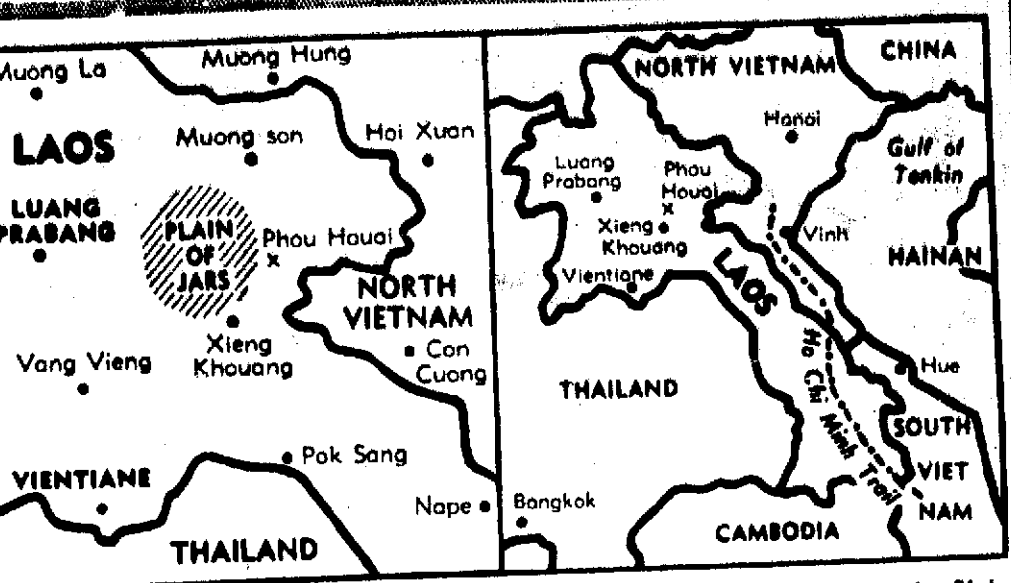

But what both Agnew and Graham are getting at goes beyond this simplification. What they are criticizing is over-emphasis, by repetition making something appear more newsworthy than it really is.

The American public resents senseless repeating of reports on campus rebellion and rioting and pillaging in the streets when responsible monitors of law and order ought to be bestirring themselves instead to investigate how university officials or the police let matters get out of control.

We get too much of "What happened" and not enough of "Why it happened."

What the public would like to know in this era of violence is, How many more police do we need? and, Are we paying enough to maintain law and order?

Merely photographing burning cities while failing to probe questions vital to law and order is merely a play-back of Nero's old act: Fiddling while Rome burned.

Communist forces have stepped up attacks on Lao government positions in the Plain of Jars, key battleground of the decade-long civil war in Laos. Control of area has been saved. The government captured it from North Vietnamese-aided rebels last summer.

Enemy Loses Nixon Action Taken to Thaw Relations of America and France

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese communiques today reported 78 North Vietnamese killed in four actions along the Cambodian border. The only allied casualties reported were three South Vietnamese mercenaries wounded.

One battle was 80 miles northwest of Saigon, another 120 miles southwest of the capital, and the other two were in between.

American and South Vietnamese forces also reported seizing tons of arms, ammunition and food supplies flowing into South Vietnam from enemy bases inside Cambodia.

South Vietnamese mercenaries led by U.S. Green Berets clashed for the second day with North Vietnamese troops in the western Mekong Delta. The government force and its supporting bombers and helicopter gunships killed 49 of the enemy, the allied commands said, and the ground troops seized tons of supplies, including three anti-aircraft guns, two rocket launchers, 42 rifles and a large quantity of ammunition.

The three South Vietnamese casualties were reported in this action. The government force claimed 40 North Vietnamese killed Monday in the same area of Chau Doc Province 120 miles southwest of Saigon.

Official sources said the North Vietnamese 18 B Regiment is operating in Chau Doc, while another North Vietnamese regiment, the 101D, is nearby along the Cambodian border. These two regiments total about 2,000 troops.

The sources said the North Vietnamese threat in Chau Doc seems to be increasing and appears to be part of an overall effort to step up fighting in the delta.

U.S. headquarters said a bivouac of the 1st Air Cavalry Division.

By ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Just what was it President Nixon was trying to save when he flew to New York to smooth French President Georges Pompidou's ruffled feathers?

Nothing more or less, diplomatic officials waver, than a long-awaited change in the atmosphere between Washington and Paris; a thaw, sure sign of the end of a near-decade of frigid relations between the two capitals.

There is no doubt the French leader had been angry, offended, puzzled by the girls screaming as he addressed the National Press Club here; by police dogs shepherding his arrival in San Francisco; by demonstrators jostling him in Chicago. He was, in short, angry enough to threaten to cut his visit short.

Nixon's act of contrition on behalf of the American people appeared to gratify the successor to the imperious Charles de Gaulle.

The Pompidou mission was a good will visit, and in the highest councils in which he found himself, there was good will aplenty. The demonstrators could not mullify that, observers feel—especially as he comes from a land where noisy street demonstrations are by no means unknown.

Nixon had no intention of persuading his guest to abandon the Gaullist policy on the Middle East or the Atlantic alliance or anything else.

The American President's sole aim was to continue the policy of reconciliation that began when he visited de Gaulle a year ago, after nearly 10 years characterized by an icy silence punctuated by occasional harsh words.

Pompidou emphasized the ceremonial nature of the visit in his New York speech. While grateful for his host's presence, Pompidou continued a hard policy line, criticizing "multiform protectionism" in the United States, and reiterating French fears over business takeovers by U.S. firms.

But the differences between the two governments on major issues would have remained even if Pompidou's path through the United States had been strewn with roses instead of thorns. American officials from Nixon on down had no illusions the French leader would change his views on the Middle East just to please the United States.

American officials who advocate an evenhanded Middle East policy, in discussing France's controversial sale of Mirage jet fighters to Libya, privately accept Pompidou's argument that Libya's military coup last fall created a vacuum someone had to fill.

Whatever U.S. differences with France may be, American experts say the French role in North Africa is greatly preferable to Soviet expansion there.

American and French diplomats agree Nixon and Pompidou found much in common and established immediate rapport. Both are fond of a low key approach; each holds a distaste for arm-twisting. Finally and most obviously, the two had never met before; now they have, and each knows something more of how the other feels about international problems.

Administration sources try to draw a sharp line between the official aspects of the visit and the venting of anti-Pompidou feelings by a small segment of the population.

It remains to be seen whether the two can really be divorced—and diplomats agree the answer to that depends primarily on the French president. Despite criticism by some French journals, which felt Pompidou lost his cool, there could be a backlash by Frenchmen who feel their head of state had been insulted.

But even in the unexpected event that Pompidou should remain disgruntled, it's not expected his annoyance will affect what was achieved between him and President Nixon.

Voters of Hempstead County go the polls Tuesday, March 10 and three districts will decide on millage increases. Board candidates have opposition in three districts and the number of Negro candidates is more than in past years. Hope District 1-A has a 10 mill bond increase on the ballot. For Post No. 2 Mrs. Ophelia V. Williams a Negro, is opposed for a three year term by Al Graves Jr. and Post No. 3 pairs Wesley Huddleston and W.M. Muldrew, a Negro and W.M. Leeman, a Negro. In the Washington District a five mill increase is on the ballot and Moss Rowe is paired against Tommie L. Love, a Negro, for a five year term. Blevins District No. 2 also has a five mill increase on the ticket and Lee Dewitt Little is opposed for a board term. Patmos District has only one issue, Delmore Lough and Willie Shepard seek Post No. 1 Board Post. Spring Hill is not seeking a tax increase nor is Saratoga and there is no opposition for board posts.

NEW Liberals Protest Replacement

By JAMES PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has named a minor government official whose desegregation views are little known to a sensitive, high-level civil rights post.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch announced Tuesday that J. Stanley Pottinger, a department lawyer in San Francisco, would succeed Leon E. Panetta, who was fired last week as HEW's civil rights chief.

Panetta said his dismissal resulted from the hard line he had taken on enforcing civil rights, particularly in school desegregation.

Moments after Pottinger's appointment was announced, two of Panetta's top associates resigned. And more than a third of the agency's 325 employees signed a letter to the President expressing alarm that White House statements "lend credence to the supposition that the national government has grown insensitive to the cause of enforcing civil rights."

Pottinger's civil rights views are all but unknown. He will not talk with reporters until he is better acquainted with his job, a spokesman said.

However, Finch said "Stan Pottinger joins me as committed unequivocally to the enforcement of constitutional and statutory law relating to civil rights."

A GOP activist, Pottinger was an early supporter of Finch in his bid for lieutenant governor of California. He also campaigned in 1968 for Richard M. Nixon. After Nixon was elected, the San Francisco attorney was named a regional attorney for HEW in the Bay area.

Pottinger is not well known among San Franciscans involved in civil rights work. But John Buserud, a partner in the law firm that brought Pottinger to San Francisco from Harvard Law School, said "in his spare time, he took on various court assignments involving prisoners."

"He's interested in involving himself with people who are less fortunate. He's very thorough. He gives consideration to all points of view," Buserud added.

In seeking the regional HEW appointment, Pottinger stated most of his federal court experience involved antitrust, securities fraud and habeas corpus cases.

Paul M. Rilling, Deep South civil rights director for the department, who resigned Tuesday, said in a statement:

"The posture of the administration in the area of school desegregation has at best been one of vacillation and nonleadership. At worst it has tended to support those seeking delay or abandonment of executive action to end segregated education in the South."

Governor's Tax Plan Is Handed Crushing Defeat by Legislature

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas legislature's wifely dealt a crushing defeat Tuesday to the two major bills in Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's $35 million tax program.

Defeated in each house on the first day the special session could legally consider the bills were a measure to revise the income tax rates to produce about $20.5 million and a measure to extend the 3 per cent state sales tax to services and raise another $10 million.

The Democratic-dominated legislature's overwhelming defeat of the measures further raised the prospects of a third term campaign by Rockefeller, a Republican who has indicated that the fate of the tax program would be a factor in his decision to run again.

Several legislators also have charged that the governor anticipated the failure of the tax program and would use their defeat as an issue against the legislature in a third-term campaign.

Firm-faced and apparently angry, the governor left the Capitol shortly after the senate and House defeated the two tax measures and refused to answer newsmen's questions.

Asked if he was surprised by defeat, Rockefeller said "I'll reserve comment on that."

The governor, who had listened to debate through a communications system linked to his office, was told that some aides had indicated to reporters that he had a strategy planned for legislative defeat of his program. He said he had no comment.

Still to be considered by the

Cooler Air, Clearing Is the Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A cold front that began moving through the state this morning was expected to bring cooler temperatures and clearing skies by tonight.

Temperatures tonight should drop into the upper 20s and low 30s, the Weather Bureau said.

The bureau said that Thursday should be fair and cool. Highs Tuesday ranged from 60 at Pine Bluff to 75 at Fort Smith.

Overnight lows included 42 at Harrison, 43 at Fayetteville, 50 at Fort Smith, 54 at Little Rock and El Dorado, 55 at Jonesboro and Memphis, 56 at Pine Bluff and 57 at Texarkana.

Precipitation for the 24-hour period that ended at 7 a.m. today included .48 of an inch at Fayetteville, .16 at Harrison, .40 at Jonesboro, 1.84 at Pine Bluff, 1.98 at El Dorado, 2.21 at Memphis, .32 at Little Rock and 85 at Fort Smith.

Nixon Wants Law to Halt Rail Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, in his first big move since taking office, asked Congress to pass a law today that would force railroad workers to block a nationwide rail strike.

"We must not submit to the chaos of a nationwide rail stoppage because a minority of the affected workers rejected a contract agreed to by their leadership," Nixon said. He urged Congress to impose a settlement agreed to by three AFL-CIO unions but rejected by the Sheet Metal Workers International Association.

The Senate Labor Committee and House Commerce Committee promptly scheduled hearings today on Nixon's proposal, the Senate committee calling in Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz.

While Nixon's proposal could be put through Congress by Thursday afternoon under rarely used procedures, leaders were guessing action would take at least a week—and even longer if heavy opposition develops.

There is longstanding opposition in Congress to imposing compulsory contract settlements in labor disputes, but chief union negotiator William W. Wampler predicted Congress will pass Nixon's compulsory settlement.

"It's a really ingenious proposal, albeit not unexpected. The three of us who have already ratified the agreement have no condition to complain," said Wampler, vice president of the International Association of Machinists, largest of the four unions.

The Sheet Metal Workers' smallest of the four, fears loss of jobs under the proposed change in job jurisdiction rules. Sheet Metal Workers' President Edward F. Carlucci called on Congress to reject Nixon's proposal as unconstitutional and unjust.

Negotiators for the Machinists, Electricians and Boiler-makers union agreed to the proposal Dec. 4 in a memorandum of understanding and their members approved it in ratification votes. Sheet Metal negotiator Wally O'Brien agreed tentatively to the memorandum, but refused to accept it after his members voted it down.

The railroad industry refused to settle with just three of the unions.

"I am forwarding to you today legislation that merely makes that memorandum the contract between the parties," Nixon told Congress.

Despite the President's action, some railroads were preparing for what would be the fourth nationwide rail strike in nearly 50 years.

Nixon's bill would impose as final the tentative agreement providing a 68-cent hike in the CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — The 1970 Miss Conway beauty pageant has been canceled because of lack of interest. Frank Moix, president of the Conway Jaycees, said Tuesday that the Jaycees and Jayettes had lost about $2,000 during the last three pageants.

Cucumber Contracts Now Ready

Farmers interested in growing cucumbers may now sign their contracts, according to Calvin J. Caldwell, County Extension Agent.

The Brown Miller Company of Texarkana, is interested in all the acres of cucumbers they can get in this area. Following is a list of prices for this year: Grade A no. 1 — $12.50 per 100 lbs.; Grade No. 1 — $9.50, which is a 50c increase over last year; Grade No. 2 — $4.00, this is a 25c increase over last year; Grade No. 3 — $1.80.

Contracts and seed are available at Barry's Grocery and Market, Red River Feed and Seed Store, or from Thurman Wright, who is fieldman for the Brown Miller Company.

Farmers planning to grow cucumbers should obtain a soil sample and follow the recommendations Mr. Caldwell said. Extension Agents are available to assist anyone with cultural practices as well as disease and insect control problems.

Enemy Loses Husband Finds Putting Panty Hose on Wife Is Really Something

By NORM GOLDSTEIN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Mister, when's the last time you put on a pair of panty hose? I do it every day now.

Too see, the good wife broke an arm last week in a not-so-good fall while ice skating.

That means that among the womanly chores she cannot do for the next four-to-six weeks, until the cast comes off, is cook (anything that doesn't come out of a can and thank goodness for electric can openers); wash her back; cut her steak—and put on her panty hose.

All these tasks now fall to me, who never was quite Mr. Manual Dexterity.

I never realized before, thankfully, what an ordeal it is simply to be a woman.

But now, I begin my day a bit earlier, leaving time after washing and dressing myself, to help her present herself to the morning world. For a man who has difficulty finding his face to shave every a.m., helping a woman get into those tights at 7:30 a.m. is indeed a problem.

In all fairness, however, I am getting the knack of it and by healing time, I may be the fastest male panty-hose-dresser on the West Side.

In addition, I have finally learned—necessity not only mothers invention, but education as well—how to light the oven. For that matter, where it is. To my unending surprise, it is really quite simple. And, wonder of wonders, I can now make a cup of real coffee. Quite good, if I say so myself. (Actually, we eat out a lot now.)

Yet, I long for that great cast-off day (as I'm sure my starving wife does) when I can return to my lazy ways and dry Mattress.

There is, however, one advantage I may truly miss after cast-off. You see, right now she can't sign checks either.

Professor of History Named

Mullins said Gatewood, a University of Georgia professor, will begin teaching at Arkansas in the second session of the summer. The endowed chair was financed by the Alumni Association.
